Meet the young activist who stood up for her rights—and changed millions of lives Before Malala Yousafzai became the youngest Nobel Prize laureate, she was just a girl fighting for her education in Pakistan. Growing up, Malala ' s father encouraged her to be politically active and speak out about her educational rights. When she did, she was shot by a member of the Taliban and the story received worldwide media coverage. Protests and petitions from around the world helped to pass an educational-rights bill in Pakistan, and Malala used this platform to continue her activism and fight for women ' s rights. Inspiring and moving, Malala Yousafzai tells the story of one girl ' s bravery in her fight for equal rights. It includes a timeline, a glossary, and an index. Excerpts from the book I saw the main entrance getting a sharp shock. That moment only in the cow house I saw the cow jumping. All the doors from the main gate to the storeroom were pushed one by one by some invisible power. In the end the storeroom door got a big shock. A wave of air entered the storeroom. The cow had given birth to a calf a few days ago. That calf was tied in the storeroom only. The calf was sleeping. But as the wind entered the room, the calf woke up and started bouncing. We brother and sister got scared. Then only I felt the breeze rotating around my neck with some pressure. I got scared if Guru Akhandanand wants to strangle me? * * * She screamed, ' I can ' t leave A.P.! A.P. is mine only! A.P. is mine! A.P.... ' I said, ' Say this to that lady! ' She said fearfully, ' No! She is scary! ' I asked, ' Does she have long teeth or scary face? ' She said ' No! She is beautiful. But I am feeling fear from her. ' I asked ' How old is that lady? ' She said ' About 25 years. She is asking me to leave A.P. Call A.P. I have to go to my A.P. ' * * * Then she looked at me and gave me a crooked and mysterious smile. Her face expressions were not of her. It was strange, cold and scary. Doesn ' t know why I felt a wave of fear running down my spine. I controlled myself and asked to her, ' What happened? Su? (I used to call her Su, short form of Sunita). ' She smiled in a way like she was making fun of me. Then she said in a friendly but stone hard, ice cold way, ' You won ' t be able to save her. I will kill your SU drop by drop like this only. ' * * * It was Tuesday night. I was practicing meditation by sitting in Padmasana posture. Suddenly I heard anklet ' s sound around me, like some female came and was walking around me. Without getting scared I kept practicing meditation in the same posture. But after some time anklet ' s sound came closer to me as if she had stepped on my meditation carpet. Means she had come too near to me. Yet I kept meditating. Then only doesn ' t know from where a gust of breeze entered the room despite closed door and windows and began to hug me. The touch of the breeze was very ecstatic and it was giving me very deep pleasure. I found myself unable to keep the breeze away from me. * * * Again I felt myself laid in the jungle. Then only I saw an angry wolf stepping towards me, towards my head from 10 feet distance. Wolf ' s stepping on the dry leaves was producing rattling sound. That wolf came near my left ear and growled fiercely. A chilled vibe ran through my whole body. The wolf started entering my body through my left ear hole. * * * That night in my half-waken sleep and half-waken dream, suddenly I felt weightlessness. A strange beautiful girl whose colour was unfair and skin was glowing, came in my dream. Her presence was not unfamiliar at all. She took my hand in her hand with love and flown off holding my hand and took me on a high branch of a tree in an unknown place. In my dream, I was realizing that she was a ghost. But yet I had no feeling of fear. I was totally fearless and I was feeling oneness with her. She poured a lot of love on me through her silent presence. When I woke up in the morning, I was feeling deeply contented and light. * * * He stepped on the road. As he reached the middle of the road, he became hundreds of feet tall. He was moving towards the field in his front. That field ended to some localities. Just in three steps he crossed the long field, entered some locality and got out of my eyes. * * * Life is the most precious gift which the God has given us just for free. We should value it. I was lucky that I was saved despite taking in 78 sleeping pills. But if I was not saved, how could I enjoy my life after the end of those dark days. We should always remember – good days always come and bad days always go. * * * Hello! I am Anurag Pandey, author of this book. I live in Bhubaneswar, India. Writing is my passion. Though I am doing job in private sector, I dream to grow as an established writer. I hope you would enjoy reading this book. Your invaluable reviews requested.

When Malala Yousafzai was only 15 years old, she was shot in the head for speaking out about the importance of educating girls and women. However, she didn't let that attack silence her. Instead, she has become a global advocate for women's rights and education. Her captivating story is presented through fact-filled text, informative sidebars, full-color photographs, and quotes from the young activist. Malala Yousafzai is a living example of the idea that you're never too young to fight for what matters to you, and that is a lesson readers can use to inspire their own activism.

A chapter book edition of Nobel Peace Prize winner Malala Yousafzai's bestselling story of courageously standing up for girls' education. Malala's memoir of a remarkable teenage girl who risked her life for the right to go to school is now abridged and adapted for chapter book readers. Raised in a changing Pakistan by an enlightened father from a poor background and a beautiful, illiterate mother, Malala was taught to stand up for what she believes. Her story of bravery and determination in the face of extremism is more timely than ever. In this edition, Malala tells her story in clear, accessible language perfect for children who are too old for Malala's Magic Pencil and too young for her middle-grade memoir. Featuring line art and simplified back matter, Malala teaches a new audience the value of speaking out against intolerance and hate: an inspiring message of hope in Malala's own words.

Dear Reader! I am Anurag Pandey. I am a writer, a poet and also a passionate programmer. I like writing codes. I use coding to automate required tasks in my office, which have reduced particular tasks completion time from hours and even days to just a few minutes. I remember, once an official from Income Tax Department of India had said to me that you are an Excel expert. I had replied him that I am not an Excel expert. I only use logic in anything, if I can. We know that Excel is a very powerful application. But we only use it for simple data entry purpose. We do some plus-minus and a little multiplication etc. and all that. Let's do little more with Excel. Let ' s play with excel. " Let ' s Play with Excel " has 51 Macros written by me. They are useful programs having original VBA coding. If you are Computer Student/ VBA Learner/ Excel Professional then you would find this book really helpful. I would like to tell you about a few programs of this book here. One of its ' Macro is able to give you ready to print Invoice with auto retrieving data. Another Macro is able to take details of entire class (any number of students and subjects) and to provide ready to print Mark-sheet of each student along with Result Sheet of all students at one place. Another Macro provides you simple and easy format to enter data of one or many Invoice/s at once. Then another Macro creates JSON file from that data, which you can use for bulk upload for generating E Invoices. Other two Macros are able to Encode/Decode data of your Excel sheet. Using this you can encode your data and can send the encoded Excel file on Mails etc. At the other hand the file can be decoded only if you have provided the Macro for decoding the sheet. You can very easily make changes in those Macros and then you would have unique Macros for encoding and decoding your Excel sheets. Another Macro of this book has the ability to check two sheets and to list all those cells which have dissimilar data along with both the data. Using this you can check for changes in two sheets having similar data with some expected/ unexpected/ accidental/ unknown mismatches. Some Macros from this book would help you to learn and do manipulation of data your way, some other would help you to exercise logic and programming and some other would help you to learn a little about Excel and VBA. With great excitement and expectation, I request you to check " Let ' s Play with Excel " and provide your invaluable feedback. ANURAG PANDEY Bhubaneswar, India 05-05-2021
